The community shower for Mr. and Mrs. G. Pendleton who lost their home and business premises by fire on October 11 was held in the Legion Hall on Saturday last.

This shower was sponsored by the local branches of the W.I. and was very largely attended. Mr. Donald Gunn acted as the Master of Ceremonies.

After O Canada had been sung Mr. and Mrs. Stan Murray obliged with some tuneful piano and violin duets. An interesting contest was then conducted by Mrs. Dick McRoberts. Mrs. J. Jackson then presented a jolly game which was followed by a sing song led by Mrs. Black and Mrs. McFarland with Mrs. Murray at the piano.

Then Mr. Gunn on behalf of the community, asked Mr. and Mrs. Pendleton to come forward and accept a most bountiful assortment of household articles to assist them in establishing a new home.

Mr. Pendleton expressed for Mrs. Pendleton and himself their heartfelt thanks and the W.I. ladies then served a delicious lunch.

Korean Relief

Members of the Women's Missionary Society gathered at the Church Parlor last week to sort and pack articles for Korean parcels. It was found that sufficient donations had not yet come in to make up a shipment.

We understand that there have been severe fires in Korea and that the need of relief is greater than ever before.

Here are some of the articles needed—wool, knitting needles, yarn goods, diapers, baby clothes and towels, wash cloths, buttons, thread, bedding, materials to sew, women's slacks and used clothing of all kinds. We feel sure there will be a greater response to this appeal when thrashing, etc. is over, and we all have a little more time to gather things together.

The construction on Highway 14 has progressed eastward to a point where the big machines are now out of the line of traffic. This makes travel in this direction most pleasant and safe from dented oil pans and such. The new highway is a big improvement on the old one. Particularly noticeable is the width, neatness of ditches and driveways. Dust, however, is still a menace.

Husbands! Wives! Want new Pep and Vim?

"Thousands of couples are weak, worn, exhausted miserably because they lack iron. For iron gives life, it gives energy, it gives vim. It gives you, too, may need for pep, suppleness, vigor, vitality. It gives you the 'get acquainted' size only 60¢. At all drugists."

Saving money... and writing cheques

A bank offers you two types of deposit account, Savings and Current.

If your main purpose is to save, to accumulate funds, it's good to have a Savings account.

If you write cheques frequently, you will like the many advantages of a Current account.

The money you leave in a Savings account earns interest, and your bank book gives you an up-to-date, continuing record of your financial progress. If your funds are active, with frequent deposits and withdrawals, a Current account provides a special service; a monthly statement, together with your cancelled cheques—useful as receipts and a ready reference for budgeting, bookkeeping and other purposes.

THE BANKS SERVING YOUR COMMUNITY

Communities should plan ahead for Jubilee year visits, former residents

REGINA.—Invitations to attend Saskatchewan's Golden Jubilee celebrations next year have drawn hundreds of replies from across the continent, Fred McGuinness, executive director of the Jubilee Committee, announced recently.

The invitations were mailed to a list of many thousands of former residents of the province. Included were: a pamphlet outlining general plans for the celebrations, a return-postage card for the listing of further names and addresses of former residents, and a letter from Mr. Justice E. M. Culliton, chairman of the Golden Jubilee Committee.

In his letter, Judge Culliton said: "It is the hope of the Saskatchewan Golden Jubilee Committee that you and your family will visit your home province sometime during the celebration period of 1955. The people of the province, and particularly those of your home community, will open their hearts to you as guests. Plans have already been made for your welcome, comfort, convenience and entertainment."

Will visit homes
Nearly all replies contain additional names and addresses of former Saskatchewan residents. One card, from Victoria, B.C., bore the names of five former residents now living in Victoria. The card added that the recipient had planned a visit to Saskatchewan in 1955, since, having pioneered in the Swift Current area, the province and particularly the southwestern area would always be considered "home".

Similarly, J. W. Warren, formerly of Weyburn and now vice-president of the Jubilee Committee, said:

Among the first pieces of furniture that the Pilgrims made when they landed at Plymouth were pine benches that were used for seats as well as small tables. The idea is just as useful today. Whether you need a coffee table or an extra seat for television, this sturdy bench will serve you well. White pine is still the most appropriate wood to use and the pattern gives actual-size tracing outlines for the curved pieces at the sides and ends. When ordering this pattern ask for number 218 and enclose 35c. This pattern is included in the Early American Reproductions Packet of patterns for making four other equally useful and authentic copies of museum pieces. The price of the packet of five patterns is $1.50.

Any neighborhood woodworker can do this while you wait. If you do not have the necessary material on hand the nearest lumber yard can supply from the list given on the pattern. Just trace the actual size diagrams for the head and the other shaped parts. Assembling into the complete unit requires only the simplest hand tools. The last step is the finishing which is covered fully on pattern 384. The price of this pattern is 35c, plus 5c extra if you want it sent air mail.

Funny and Otherwise

The club bore, renowned for his oft-repeated pretensions to infallibility, startled his hearers by admitting that he had once been wrong.

"You wrong? Surely not!" scoffed a listener.

"Yes," replied the bore. "Once I thought I was wrong and then discovered that I wasn't!"

He was in a shocking temper. He jammed his hat on his head and scowled at his wife, and went out without a word. She called after him: "John, you've forgotten something."

"Well, what?"

"You forgot to slam the door."

They stood in front of a jeweler's shop. She said, coaxingly: "Darling, look at that lovely diamond ring."

"Yes, dear," he replied, "if ever I have to refuse you a diamond ring, it will be one like that."

"The engagement's off, my dear. After a terrible row he said 'I had enough of my so-called love.'"

"And then what happened?"

"I gave him back his so-called diamond ring."

"How is Brownson getting on with his young wife?"

"Well, a month after the wedding a belated telegram of congratulation arrived and they refused to accept it."

A doctor whose medical skill far exceeded the clerk of his hand-writing sent an invitation to a patient to spend an evening with him, adding that there would be music, cards, and so on.

The friend failed to turn up, and sent no explanation. When they met the following day the doctor asked whether he had received the note.

"Yes, thank you," replied the other. "I took it to the chemist and had it made up, and I feel much better already."

"Her husband is a well-known economist, isn't he?"

"Used to be—before he married her."

Shock, but no cause for panic says minister

REGINA.—Municipal Affairs Minister McIntosh of Saskatchewan said the province's rusted and rain-soaked wheat crop "comes as quite a shock," but is "not to be panicked about."

In the 1953-54 crop year, he said, Saskatchewan farmers delivered some 245,000,000 bushels of wheat for which they received an initial payment of $1.40 a bushel. But the selling price received by the Canadian wheat board was between $1.70 and $2 for top grades.

"Thus, the farmers still have a substantial equity in the 1953 crop," said Mr. McIntosh.

He was commenting in an interview on a statement recently by Roy Marler, president of the Alberta Federation of Agriculture, who called on federal and provincial governments to recognize the "precarious financial position" of farmers.

Mr. McIntosh said this year's crop was shocking because the average expected yield had dropped to the present eight bushels an acre from the 22 bushels forecast in mid-July.

"An estimated 125,000,000 bushels of wheat still lie stored on Saskatchewan farms," he said. Farmers produced a substantial quantity of oats and barley in 1953 as well. "We consider it urgent that the federal government give serious consideration to making . . . an interim payment in the near future," Mr. McIntosh said.

Nearly all fire deaths in 1953 were in homes

REGINA.—Last year in Saskatchewan, nearly all fire deaths and 66 percent of all fires occurred in homes. There were 1,157 fires in homes, with an average loss of $485 per family. R. A. W. Switzer, provincial fire commissioner, suggests the following precautions to help cut down this needless waste of life and property:

Do not smoke in bed, around closets, work benches or flammable liquids. Let expert electricians do repairs and re-wiring jobs. Have chimneys cleaned and checked and heating appliances properly checked and installed before winter. Never leave young children alone at home. Teach fire safety to your children.

Black watch coming home

OTTAWA.—The 2nd Battalion, the Royal Highland Regiment, the famed Black Watch, is scheduled to embark for Canada in the next three weeks, the first unit of Canada's 25th Brigade to sail for home.

Defence headquarters here quoted Brig. P. A. Clift, commander of the 25th Brigade in Korea, as making the announcement.

Canada is cutting her 6,000-man force in Korea by two-thirds and some 4,000 officers and men will be involved in moves home.

Remaining in Korea will be the 2nd Battalion, Queen's Own Rifles of Canada, the 3rd Field Ambulance, RCAMC, and supporting administrative elements.

OTTAWA.—More than 326,000 Canadians were employed in federal departments of government and in crown corporations in June, with a monthly payroll of more than $84,000,000.

The bureau of statistics reported that federal government departmental branches and service employed 181,129 people in June, 3,210 more than in May and 11,335 more than in June last year. Their earnings totalled $43,998,276, a slight increase from $43,328,735 in May and considerably above the June, 1953, total of $38,240,859.

Durums still undergoing experiments against rust

In 1950 it became evident that the durum wheats were more susceptible to races 15B stem rust than the hard red spring wheats, states A. B. Macdon, cereal breeding laboratory, Winnipeg, Man. This fact intensified the search for resistant strains which could be used as breeding material.

The world wheat collections, including strains of durum wheats, were screened in the greenhouse and in the field for rust reaction. Three varieties, namely CI 3255, PI 94701 and RL 1714 were found to have what appeared to be satisfactory resistance.

Unfortunately, none of the three was satisfactory as commercial varieties because of poor crop production and inferior macaroni-making quality.

There are two main durum breeding stations, one at the North Dakota Agricultural College and the other at the Cereal Breeding Laboratory, Winnipeg.

Six years ago, the work of transferring rust resistance from Knapl (a variety of Emmer wheat) to the durum wheats was undertaken at the North Dakota agricultural college. This work has been successful and good Knapl derivations are available for breeding purposes.

Other sources of resistance have been found in the world collection and a few Abyssinian strains; as well as one from Ethiopia, show promise. With the exception of the Knapl derivative, all are somewhat similar in their nature of inheritance.

All these sources of resistance are being used in the breeding program at Winnipeg. However, it is thought that completely satisfactory commercial varieties will only be developed by combining more than one source of resistance.

At present many hybrids, the result of single crosses combining one or more sources of resistance, are under test for field performance and quality. Some of these are distinctly more rust resistant than present commercial varieties and appear promising in yield and quality.

It is hoped that one of these will be able to serve as a temporary variety, and that the day is not too far off when the durum grower can look forward to producing a clean, healthy crop safe from the ravages of stem rust.

Using a floured sharp knife, cut dough into 2" lengths and place, well apart, on ungreased cookie sheets. Sprinkle rolls with cornmeal and let rise, uncovered, for ½ hour. Brush with cold water and let rise another ½ hour. Meanwhile, stand a broad shallow pan of hot water in the oven and preheat oven to hot, 425°.

Remove pan of water from oven and bake the rolls in steam-filled oven for ½ hour. Brush thoroughly with cold water and sprinkling lightly with cornmeal after the first 15 min., and again brushing them with cold water, 2 minutes before removing baked buns from the oven. Yield—18 rolls.

OUR COMPLETE SHORT STORY

BRIDESMAID

—By J. A. CARROLL

STANDING there with my eyes closed, listening to the deep, solemn notes of the organ, I realized that the last time I had been in church had been a wedding, too. My own. Now, when I opened my eyes I saw the bride coming down the aisle, a beautiful picture in white. Albert was waiting at the altar for her, smiling, his dark eyes adoring her.

I went back in my mind's eye to the events that had led up to the marriage. The Hanson girls, twins, of whom it was Joan, humorously referred to as the younger; that Albert had been in love with.

It wasn't a case of just falling in love. I had known Albert since we had gone to school together for the first time when we were six years old. Joan had been sort of a growth on him—his affection and need of her deepened through-out the years of public school, high school and college. And he was good-looking, school together, though rather short, but just as attractive to the unfair sex as Joan was to the men. I was puzzled as to why the affair hadn't culminated happily much sooner—but then I didn't know Joan very well.

Albert explained it to me. "She has," he said in his low, quiet voice, "what they call a sister complex. Frances is her twin, but somehow, all through life, she has taken the initiative in whatever they did. Now Joan stands still when Frances isn't leading her somewhere."

"Yes, but what's that got to do with you?"

"This. Remember when Frances was going around with that football key player back in high school?"

"Yes, but—"

"And don't you remember how Joan tagged around after them like a dog on a leash?"

I began looking back through the pages of memory and I did see a couple of scenes in which Joan had looked like a penguin. She makes a couple a crowd. I nodded.

"And remember at graduation—when Frances was moon-struck with our French teacher—the one with the Hitler moustache?"

"Yes," I answered. "I can see as plain as day now Joan going up on that platform and practically begging away when he gave her diploma to her. I remember wondering at the dopey look on her face at the time."

Albert pursed his lips, nodding his head in agreement. He shrugged, pushed his hands deeper in his pockets. "You see?"

"But, Lord, man, is it this going on? Will it always be?"

"That," he said, "I am going to find out. He stood up and walked out on the club veranda with me. He pointed out to one of the nearer tennis courts, where a young man with a very bright, flashing smile, and was playing doubles with the Hanson girls. "Frances' latest flame," he said. "Tennis star. You can see Joan's eyes following him from here."

It was true. Joan had lovely deep black eyes—you could see them practically devouring the young man. Albert tossed up a racket, began to stroll toward the practice boards. "I'm going to polish up my backhand, then I'm going to try and take this fellow in the tournament—and try to beat the dickens out of him every time that Joan's around."

I sat in the shade, watching him pound that ball around for three hours that afternoon. Day after day, day after day, he played tennis as he never had before. He lost ten pounds, became lean and tanned and hard, and his game had a dazzle to it that would have frightened a Davis Cup man. The day of the tournament grew closer, and I could feel myself growing more tense, wondering what the outcome of it was going to be—I didn't think that the boy friend of Frances had a chance, but how would Albert's victory affect Joan?

I was with Albert, the night before the tournament, when the bad news fell. Frances herself told us. I can remember her face, serious, dusky and curved in the evening shadow. She had fallen out of love with the tennis player.

There was a silence. Albert asked in a strained voice, "Does Joan know about it?"

Frances nodded, her voice low and sweet (there was the girl I had once loved in love with). "Oh, yes. She thinks he's rather juvenile too, now."

I had a hard job to keep from howling with laughter at the look on Albert's face then; but I must admit it didn't change his mind any. Albert always kept right after something until he got it. Patiently, he bided his time, and Frances began to go around with a pool. He came to my room mulling, clutching his head; Albert was beginning to feel the strain.

But I helped him construct Shakespearean sonnets, and tricky, pleading little things with interlocking verses—because Joan was now dreaming; and uttering little sighs all the time. But just when Albert thought that his verse and flowers and tender words were getting somewhere, Frances went and picked a new companion. A wrestler.

"Never," said Albert grimly, Joan's face, and realized that if she had never loved Albert before, she did now. She was almost crying, rolling up his sleeves and enrolling at the Y.M.C.A., "will it be said I am a quitter?"

"Wait," I said. "This way you're getting nowhere. Why not explain things to Frances—get her to pretend to fall for you, and when Joan gets into the proper mood, turn about quickly and sweep her off her feet!"

Albert did it. Never have I seen a scheme work out so beautifully. Albert and Frances, everywhere together. Albert as the pool madly devoted to Frances. People began to remark what a grand couple they made. Wasn't Albert divine looking?

Joan began to think so. The old, familiar "love-look" began to appear in her face, and I judged that it wouldn't be long till Albert took advantage. I had to go out of town for a couple of weeks; when I returned, the wedding was already arranged, everything set for the following day.

The organ seemed to grow a little more solemn. I looked at the altar, where the minister was just finishing the ceremony. The bride and groom turned toward each other, smiling happily, and kissed. Frances and Albert certainly made a grand couple.

CALGARY. — The Canadian Rockies Tourist Association's accommodation service arranged rooms for nearly 20,000 visitors to Alberta during July and August.

Newspapers still tops as ad medium

VANCOUVER. — Total circulation of Canadian daily newspapers has reached a record high of more than 3,975,000, Ian H. Macdonald, general manager of the Canadian Daily Newspaper Publishers' Association, reported.

Mr. Macdonald, here for the association's fall directors' meeting said daily newspapers have reached record circulation levels despite competition from television, radio, magazine and weekend publications.

In addition newspapers are enjoying a record dollar volume of national advertising "in spite of increased competition from these other media."

"There is every indication that when the new audit circulation figures are published daily newspaper circulation will be well in excess of 3,800,000," Mr. Macdonald said.

Advertisers at both the manufacturing and retail levels are becoming more analytical and selective in their choice of advertising media as business competition steadily increases.

Daily newspapers welcome this condition "as no other medium is closer to the man who buys and the man who sells."

WELCOME CLOTHING

Manitoba farmer can appeal on mineral rights

WINNIPEG. — A Virden farmer who lost his claim to the mineral rights on his property in a Manitoba court of appeal ruling this summer, was granted the right to carry his appeal to the Supreme Court of Canada.

The same Manitoba court of appeal which ruled against him earlier in the year unanimously agreed that Edward Gordon Wylie be allowed to take his case to the Supreme Court.

Mr. Wylie is being supported in his legal battle with the Province of Manitoba and the Manitoba Farm Loans Association by other farmers in the Virden oil district. The action is being considered a test case.

The earlier decision of the Manitoba Court of Appeal which granted the mineral rights on Wylie's property to the province reversed the decision of Chief Justice E. K. Williams in court of Queen's bench the year previous. The original judgment was appealed by the Farm Loans Association.

The typical household sewing machine contains about 185 parts.

RELIABLE DOBBIN

CORONATION, Alta. — Two farmers pressed old Dobbin into harness here to overcome harvesting problems presented by wet fields. They hitched a tractor to their binder, and then hauled a team of horses to the tractor to get it over the tough spots.

WHO GOES TO SCHOOL IN ALBERTA

What is the Alberta Department of Education doing for children who are handicapped?

For more than 30 years the Department has provided for the education of blind and deaf children in special schools in other provinces.
Most attend the Ontario
School for the Blind at Brantford, or the Saskatchewan
School for the Deaf at Saskatoon; others go to the British Columbia School for the Deaf and Blind at Vancouver, the Nazareth Institute for the Blind at Montreal, the Mackay School for the Deaf at Montreal, and the Institutes for Deaf Girls and Boys in the same city.

These children go with the consent of their parents. The Department of Education pays
their transportation, tuition, and living costs while they are away from home. Competent and kindly escorts take them to and from school in private railway cars. More than 20 blind children and more than 100 deaf children are now provided for in this way. In happy environments and trained by sympathetic teachers they learn the things other children learn. Each one, as well, learns a trade.
Nearly all Alberta children who have graduated from these schools are now successfully employed here in Alberta. Many have done well in baking, glazing, hairdressing, piano tuning, and barbering; others are employed in machine shops and offices,
and even in executive positions.

A new residential school for the deaf, the most up-to-date and efficient of its kind, is under construction in Edmonton.

Other Alberta children whose eyesight or hearing is impaired attend special classes
at Calgary and Edmonton.
In sight-saving classes the children's eyes are protected by non-glare lighting and special equipment, such as tape recorders, and emphasis is on oral work. In hearing-conservation classes, special group
and individual hearing aids
and other acoustic equipment are used. Many children in these classes become so well adjusted that they are able to return to regular classes
for their high school work.

Fifteen special classes in the four largest cities provide for children of low mental ability. Here the pupils receive individual training, and skills
in reading, writing, arithmetic and spelling are taught with each child proceeding at his own rate. Crafts, such as simple woodwork, weaving, and sewing are taught, and older pupils receive training
in home economics or shop work. School boards are encouraged by special grants
from the Department of Education to provide opportunity classrooms and specially gifted teachers for children of these groups. Other special grants, up to $1,650 per classroom, are available to assist school boards who wish to provide instruction for children who are so far retarded mentally that they cannot profit from the work even of the opportunity classes.

The Department of Education also provides special grants for speech therapy and therapeutic physical training,
as well as day-school services
for children who attend the Cerebral Palsy Clinics in Calgary and Edmonton. Children, confined for long periods in

Local News

A YPU meeting will be held next Sunday evening, October 24, in the Irma United Church.
A good program has been organized and all young people of Irma and district are most heartily welcome to attend.

Perhaps this fine weather coming after frost and snow has fooled the young turkey hens on the farm of J. Dunbar into thinking that winter is over and this is spring. Anyway, they are busy laying turkey eggs in Oct.
It is a nice gesture but we are afraid those busy birds will find that Christmas and quite possibly the chopping block stands between them and any Easter celebrations.

Rev. H. W. Inglis and son
Hugh were Edmonton visitors
last week.

All the teachers of the Irma school took in the teachers convention at Vermilion last week.

Mrs. M. M. Tripp is visiting in Edmonton this week.

Jaundice is still going the rounds. The latest victims are the children of the Wm. Hub-man family.

We were pleased to hear from
Mr. and Mrs. N. S. Johnson of Enderby, B.C. They sent a two years in advance sub to the Times, some kind words for us and a request to Mr. and Mrs.
I. S. Reeds that they write—or better still come out to Enderby
for a visit.

These lovely Indian Summer days are helping us forget the bad weather just past. The crops are being harvested and every day more farmers are being added to the list of those who have their threshing and combining finished. The yield and also grade of the various grains has been badly cut but there is still much to be thankful for.

Mrs. J. Marshall who has been in an Edmonton hospital
for some time with an injured hip, is now well enough to be at her home here.

The next meeting of the Junior W.A. will be held at the home of Mrs. Kirkman on Tuesday evening, October 26. Devotationals, Mrs. Fischer, Hostesses, Mrs. Meyer and Mrs. Pond. Program, Mrs. Anquist. Roll call,
How We Can Improve Our W.A.
Members please bring your novelties and sewing to this meeting.

Mr. and Mrs. V. Torrance and Mrs. K. Coffin were Edmonton visitors this week.

Mrs. McRoberts Sr. spent Tuesday and Wednesday of this week with her daughter Mrs. J.
Moore of Telford.

Mrs. Herbert Sr. had the misfortune to fracture her ankle on Saturday last. Mrs. Herbert was doing the morning chores when her son was away threshing.
She met with her accident when a cow pushed her on to the cement floor of the barn. She is now convalescing at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Haakon Larson.

Attention all W.A. members.
Be ready for the BIG BAZAAR
in the basement of the Irma United Church on Saturday, October 30. Be ready with home cooking, mystery parcels, aprons, novelties and candy.

A recent visitor with Mr. and Mrs. R. Reber and family were Mr. C. A. O'Keefe of Toronto
who was enroute to Calgary.
Other visitors with Mr. and Mrs.
Reber were the former's nephew Jimmy Reber and his bride from Valleyview, Alberta.

equipped classrooms, tastefully decorated, with desks
for those who can use them,
but with plenty of floor space
to take care of children who have to be brought in on

Department of Education, working in co-operation with sponsoring organizations, or
with the Department of Pub-
